STOCK MARKET DROPS TO NEW LOW RECORDS

Opens Poorly, Recovers in Hour,
Then Sinks Quickly Back to Deepest Level.

VAGUE FEAR IS SHOWN

Known Causes of Last Two Days' Decline Not Recognized
As Reason for Slump.

NEW YORK, June 6.—After a low opening, but a rapid recovery during the first hour today, the stock market broke sharply during the second hour and by noon a large number of the leading issues had been carried down to new low levels.

Steel broke to 53 3/4, a new low record.

There was considerable liquidation by weakened speculators who had been holding on in the hope of a rally.

Street Showed Fear.

The Street began to show a vague fear, when it was argued that the known causes of the last two days' decline did not account for such a severe slump.

Some traders expressed the belief that until the full cause of the decline became known there was no telling how far it might go.

Rumors were current that a suit to dissolve the American Can Company was pending, and Lehigh Valley, another Red-Moore property, slumped to new low record of 16 1/2.

Atchafalpa also showed a sharp decline.

PUBLIC USES FIRST SKIRMISH OVER TRANSFERS

Utilities Act, Judge Mullowney
Decides, Is Unconstitutional,
But Companies Comply.

OBEYING UNDER PROTEST

Public Service Commission Is Told Slips Issued By Coach
Line Will Be Honored.

A decision of Judge Mullowney in the Police Court today that the act of August 24, requiring the free exchange of transfers between the Metropolitan Coach Company and the lines of the street railway companies is unconstitutional, will have no effect on the order of the Public Utilities Commission to accept such transfers, compliance with which is being made today by the Capital Traction Company and the Washington Railway and Electric Company.

Within an hour after the receipt of the order, R. Ross Perry and J. J. Darlington, counsel for the companies, appeared before the commission with the statement that the Herdic Company's transfers will be received pending a suit in equity to be instituted in the District Supreme Court to test the constitutionality of the law.

Plan To Start Proceedings.

The attorneys filed with the commission a notification that they are dissatisfied with the order and that they will begin proceedings in equity against the members of the commission, and others, to set aside the order from which it appeals on the ground "that the requirement act and service imposed by it is unlawful and constitutes a taking of property without compensation, and is in contravention of the rights of the street railway companies under the Constitution of the United States, and that the act is unconstitutional and void."

It is authoritatively stated that the issuance and acceptance of transfers will continue for a year at least, even should the Court of Appeals decide in favor of the companies, as it will be at least a year before the case is determined by that tribunal.

Corporation Counsel Thomas said the sudden decision of the street railway corporations to comply with the law, which has been in effect since February 1, is a surprise. He said the Public Utilities Commission, for nearly four months the companies have refused to accept the transfers of the herdic company.

Action against the corporations in the Police Court was started by the filing of a motion to quash the information against the Capital Traction Company and the Washington Railway and Electric Company. Both the District and the Supreme Court have refused to grant the motion. The District Court has refused to grant the motion to quash the information against the Capital Traction Company and the Washington Railway and Electric Company.

Notified by Commission.

Following a hearing on June 2 the commission notified the traction companies to conform to the act of August 24 requiring the acceptance of transfers issued by the Metropolitan Coach Company at Fifteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue. In the event the corporations declined to obey the order it was the intention of the commission to issue a writ of mandamus to the Supreme Court under which the companies would have been liable to a fine of $200 for each refusal to accept transfers.

The position of the commission is that the law is constitutional until the highest tribunals have decided otherwise, and it is now up to the street railway companies to prove its unconstitutionality.

In granting the motion of the Capital Traction Company Attorney R. Ross Perry & Sons, G. Thomas Dunlop, and Edwin A. Ewing to quash the information, Judge Mullowney declared that the act of Congress calling for the issuance of transfers between the traction companies and the herdic company is unconstitutional and that the transfer law encroached upon the rights of the companies to manage their own business and that the Constitution prohibited Congress from taking such steps.

Immediately following the court's ruling, Corporation Counsel Thomas announced that he would appeal the decision.

Attorneys R. Ross Perry & Sons, Swingle & Dunlop announced that whatever transfer mediations had been established were brought about at the protest of their client.

PRESIDENT DECIDES GREEN MUST HANG

Refuses to Halt Execution of Woman's Assailant, Doomed to Death Monday.

President Wilson today denied a petition for the commutation of the sentence of Nathaniel Green, colored, who is sentenced to be hanged Monday for the brutal assault on a white woman last Christmas night.

The petition for Executive clemency came after an appeal to the Supreme Court of the District had been in vain. The appeal was based on the ground that Judge Stafford had erred in insisting on sending the case to the jury after Green had pleaded guilty in the hope of getting a life imprisonment. The jury after brief deliberation returned a verdict that Green should be hanged for the crime. The appeal to the Supreme Court and to the President were then taken without result, and no legal steps that can now be taken would save Green from the gallows.

The case is said to have been given lengthy examination by the President, but it is not believed that he ever wavered toward letting Green escape the gallows.

Green must hang on next Monday. It is now six months since his crime was committed.

POLICE CENSUS SHOWS 361 GAIN

Annual Canvass Shows Only
Nominal Increase in the District's Population.

TOTAL IS GIVEN AS 353,297
Seven Precincts Show Decrease and Four Increases—Gain of 3,000 Was Expected.

An increase of only 361 in the population of the District during the last year is shown by the annual police census, complete figures for which were completed today.

The total population of the District, according to the census, taken the latter part of April, is 353,297. The 1912 census showed a population of 352,936.

Four Precincts Show Increase.

Seven precincts showed a total decrease of 6,307, while the other four showed a total increase of 6,388. Of the 353,297 inhabitants of the District, 255,153 are white and 98,144 are colored. This is an increase of 893 in the white population and a decrease of 532 in the colored. In 1912 the white population was 254,260 and the colored 98,676.

The biggest increase is shown in the Tenth precinct, embracing a large portion of the northwest residential section and suburban territory lying beyond. The increase here during the year was 1,454. The biggest loss, 1,190, was shown by the Second precinct.

It had been generally expected that the census would show an increase of about 2,000 in the total population, and the figures came as something of a surprise.

The precincts which showed increases were the Fifth, Seventh, Ninth, and Tenth. All of the others lost in population. The increase in the Ninth, which embraces the northeast section of the District, with the exception of a small suburban section, was 1,276. The Seventh, which takes in Georgetown, gained 983, and the Fifth, which embraces the southeast section west of the Eastern Branch of the Potomac, gained 625.

The losses of the other precincts were: No. 1, 735; No. 2, 1,490; No. 3, including a large part of the exclusive residential section, 13,754; No. 4, 1,212; No. 6, 596; No. 8, 1,335; and No. 10, embracing the section east of the Eastern Branch, 120.

Recapitulation of Figures.

The recapitulation of the figures follows:

Precinct	White	Col.	Total
1.....	4,460	770	5,230
2.....	22,420	13,754	36,174
3.....	14,343	12,747	27,090
4.....	2,490	12,776	15,266
5.....	29,419	8,013	37,432
6.....	19,454	4,176	23,630
7.....	24,371	19,424	43,795
8.....	28,160	48,625	76,785
9.....	56,974	6,935	63,909
10.....	2,948	4,886	7,834
Total.....	255,153	98,144	353,297

The big increase in the tenth is accounted for by the large number of new residences, as well as apartment houses, which have been built in the growing northwest section during the year, drawing persons from other sections of the District.

MILLIONAIRE LOAN MAKER TO BE TRIED

Daniel H. Tolman, Head of Big
String of Agencies, to Face
Charge in Capital.

Daniel H. Tolman, millionaire head of a string of seventy-two "salary loan" offices throughout the country, will be among those who will have to face charges of violating the so-called loan shark law when the cases are finally heard in Police Court.

Tolman's name and a charge of violating the loan shark law were entered on the blotter at headquarters today, but Tolman, whose home is in New York, was not arrested.

Service of the warrant for Tolman by Central Office Detectives Evans and O'Dea was formally accepted by the woman manager of Tolman's Washington office, who said Tolman had deposited $50 collateral for his appearance when the case is called for trial.

The specific charge against Tolman, according to the detectives, is that through his Washington office he loaned money at a greater rate than permitted by law, and that he had per cent a month in violation of the act of Congress of March 4, 1911, and that the borrower gave four weekly notes for $15 each.

Senator Swanson of Virginia, chairman of the Public Buildings and Grounds Committee, will soon take up with President Wilson the proposed Morris bridge across the Potomac. Senator Swanson is going to West Virginia on the strike investigation, but expects to see President Wilson when he returns.

Senator Swanson believes the proposed bridge will be an appropriation for the bridge, and intends to do all he can to bring it about.

Redfield Wants New Building Enlarged

An enlargement of the new building for the Department of Commerce, now being built at Nineteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest, so soon it will accommodate the proposed census force of 800, is to be urged upon Congress by Secretary of Commerce Redfield.

The situation with respect to its occupancy is somewhat tangled through the split of the old Department of Commerce and Labor. Former Secretary Nagel contracted for the building for the old department. When the department was split there was an immediate question as to whether both departments were to be housed in the new structure. Secretary of Labor Wilson has asked for a new building.

"Lead clean lives," said he, declaring there is no double standard of morality for men and women. Mr. Daniels condemned having as a relic of barbarism, and insisted on the realization by the graduates of the duty they owe every taxpayer.

Among his auditors were many Washington residents. The girls who danced at the class German last night and who will be at the ball tonight which culminates "June week," were among the most interested of the auditors. Thirty were from Washington among these being Miss Virginia Stone, daughter of Lieut. Com. M. C. Stone, U. S. N. 'INTERESTED' SENATORS BARRED FROM VOTE ON ISSUES IN TARIFF BILL

Lobby Inquiry Today Brings Out Opinions of Reed and Dupont—Latter Declares He Has Sold
Interest in Powder Company—Oliver Clashes
With Investigating Board.

REFUSES TO TELL OF COPPER HOLDINGS; QUESTIONS INQUISITORS' JURISDICTION

Sharp insistence that Senators refrain from voting on the items in the tariff bill in which they have personal interest will be a direct result of the pending lobby investigation. This was made clear today in the course of the session of the Senate lobby committee and was the most important feature of the morning's proceedings.

That Senators are to be shut out from voting on things in which they are concerned, or that the attempt will be made, was disclosed in the course of the testimony of Senator du Pont of Delaware. He said he owned 1,000 shares each of Pennsylvania Steel, Cambria Steel, and National Biscuit stock. He had disposed of all his du Pont Powder Company holdings and had refrained from voting on any powder matters because he felt he could not with propriety vote on them.

Will Vote On Bill. Senator Reed then asked the direct question whether Senator du Pont would not feel that he was required to refrain from voting on anything in the tariff bill affecting steel or the National Biscuit Company. Senator du Pont said he would not vote on any- thing of this kind; that is, on amend- ments. He would feel free to vote on the bill as a whole.

BALKS AT POSITION ON DISTRICT BOARD

Congressman Kindel Resigns,
Saying Constituents Sent Him Here For Other Things.

Congressman George J. Kindel, a Colorado Democrat, today resigned as a member of the House District Committee. He wanted a place on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, and says his constituents did not send him here "to study the intricacies of the Washington government."

The resignation of Mr. Kindel, which was read to the House by Speaker Clark, and accepted, constitutes the first open insurgency against the committee assignments of the Ways and Means Committee, recently approved by the House.

Mr. Kindel's resignation also leaves the second vacant chair about the committee table of the House District Committee. Congressman George Kunk of Maryland, died last week, and his death created the first vacancy.

The Ways and Means Committee probably will fill the two vacancies within a few days, although no definite plans have been made.

For the present Mr. Kindel is without a committee assignment, and it is not known what he will eventually draw. The Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, which he desires, now has its full membership.
